

Privacy Statement

The bold Project respects the privacy of every individual who visits our website or responds to our interactive material. This Privacy Statement outlines the information bold collects via its various web pages and how we use that information. This Statement will also instruct you on what to do if you do not want your personal information collected or shared when you visit the bold website or respond to our advertisements.

How we use your information bold collects personally identifiable information such as your name, address, telephone number, or email address only if you consent to provide us with that information.

This voluntary information we collect is used to notify our site users about updates to our website and to contact potential users about bold activities, events and to share news and other useful information that users have indicated they are interested. We do not share information collected with any other companies unless it is absolutely necessary. The information that you provide may be shared with our external website company, New Media Bureau, for the sole purpose of administering your access to areas of our website.

We take our responsibilities in relation to personal information seriously and ensure it is held, used, transferred and processed in accordance with all applicable Data Protection laws. This includes any law, enactment or regulation relating to the processing, privacy and use of personal data as applicable to the bold project.

bold will not disclose your personally identifiable information unless required to do so by law or in the good faith and belief that such action is necessary to: (1) conform to the edicts of the law; (2) protect and defend the rights or property of bold.

Information collected automatically

We also collect certain information about our web visitors automatically, such as your domain name, the type of internet browser you use, and the operating system you use. This information is used only for internal review, to help us improve the content of our web pages.

Children

bold does not intentionally collect personally identifiable information such as name, address, telephone number, or email address from children. However, users of any age can visit our website.

If a child has provided us with personally identifiable information, a parent or guardian of that child should e-mail us at: info@bold-scotland.org if they would like this information deleted from our records. We will use reasonable efforts to delete the child's information from our existing files.

Your rights and changes to this statement

You can amend the information we hold about you, or your mailing preferences, at any time by emailing info@bold-scotland.org .

If you have any queries, or wish to restrict data processing or sharing (including use for marketing) or do not want to be contacted by the bold Project, please contact us.